WeCare is a start-up housed within PoliHub, the incubator of the Politecnico of Milan. It operates in the field of digital, human and animal health. The start-up has developed two platforms, Amyko (for humans) and Amuuko (for animals), which measure, archive and manage physiological data. Amyko is a NFC passive technology connected bracelet to a personal archive of medical data hosted on cloud, allowing access at any time. Amuuko is composed of a subcutaneous chip and a collar allowing a fast access to the veterinary data and a geolocalisation of the animal.
