Musa is a start-up that, through an intuitive 3D game for children aged 6 to 11, aims to make music learning more fun and accessible to all. The game is available on tablet and computer. Musa works with an algorithm that recognizes the frequencies of any musical instrument, but especially those of the piano. The start-up has developed an alpha version of the product that will be tested on 400 children between June and July, then will follow a commercial test with 1000 families in the Milan area. the company has an ongoing partnership with Casio Italia.
